Debating Immigration and Citizenship in Europe and the US
Professor Martin A. Schain, Spring 2014

Seminar in Comparative Politics
V53.0595: Tuesdays, 3:30-6PM,
12 Waverly Place, Room L113

In this seminar we will focus on the political debates about immigration and citizenship policy in Europe and the United States. Although we will spend some time analyzing and comparing the policies themselves, we will be most concerned with how these policies are framed, and how the issues are debated. This will be an active seminar, which will require each of you to engage in a set of debates about immigration and citizenship, to take a position and to defend it. Although the subject matter is important, this seminar is about the process of civic discourse.

In the first section of this course, I will give a series of lectures, and present a set of questions that we will discuss. We will examine how the political issues of immigration have been developed and constructed in the Europe and the United States. We will then look at how questions of immigration have challenged different elements of citizenship, as it has been understood in Europe and the United States. For the second section, I have invited five prominent scholars, and I have asked each of them to present an issue/policy position that they have written about and advocated in the scholarly literature. For each of these sessions, I will act as the primary discussant to challenge what they present, and I will ask several you to follow with questions and/or disagreements. In the third section we will break into teams for formal debates on questions that have emerged out of the previous sessions.

I have asked you to purchase the following book:

I am also recommending, but not requiring, the following book:

Carol M. Swain, editor, Debating Immigration (Cambridge University Press, 2007)

Finally, I will make available to you a standard handbook on college debate for the third section of the course.
January 28: Introduction

I. Questions of immigration and citizenship

1. February 4: Issues of Immigration in Comparative Perspective

   Schain, The Politics of Immigration…, chs. 1 and 3

   Messina, The Logics and Politics of Post WW-II Immigration…, Ch. 2*

   Schain review of Caldwell*

2. February 11: Issues of Immigration in the United States

   Schain, The Politics of Immigration…, chs. 8 and 9

   Susan Martin, “Unauthorized Migration…”*

3. February 18: Citizenship issues in Comparative Perspective

   Rogers Brubaker, Citizenship and Nationhood in France and Germany(This book is also an e-book: [https://ezproxy.library.nyu.edu/login?url=http://name.umdl.umich.edu/HEB01814], Ch. 1

   MM Howard, “The Citizenship Debate”*

   Schuck in Joppke, Challenge to the Nation-State… *

   Spiro in Hansen and Weil, Dual Nationality… *

II. Scholars Debate Immigration and Citizenship

   Reading: “Immigration: The Cultural Dimension”*

   Reading: “The Moral Community and Immigration”*

   Reading: Tichenor and Rosenblum, “Poles Apart” *
7. March 25—Professor Peter Schuck (Yale and New York University Law Schools): Debating Birthright Citizenship
   Reading: “Birthright of a Nation”*
   Reading: “Consensual Citizenship”

8. April 1—Professor Chebel-d’Appollonia (Rutgers and Sciences Po Paris): Immigrant Mobilization as a Response to Securitization
   Reading: *

9. April 8—Professor Susan Martin (Georgetown/ISIM): Understanding Undocumented Immigration from a Comparative Perspective
   Reading: “Irregular Migration, State Security and Human Security”*

III. Students Debate Immigration (propositions to be announced)

10. April 15—Team I: Citizenship (US)

11. April 22—Team II: Citizenship (Europe)

12. April 29—Team III: Immigration/integration (US)

13. May 5—Team IV: Immigration/integration (Europe)