POLS 335, TTR 10:50-12:05pm, STR 239

Course Description:

This reading intensive course is designed to provide students with a critical introduction to the “Politics of Immigration.” The class will begin with a review of some of the mainstream and alternative explanations (from colonization to neoliberal economic restructuring) experts have proposed as some of the root-causes and initiating forces behind international migration. We will subsequently turn our attention to the dynamics of immigration policymaking and examine how race, gender, sexuality, and class impact and are impacted by immigration laws. The course will then shift focus and take a close look at some of the most contentious topics related to the issue of immigration, such as: the role of immigrant workers in the U.S. economy, cultural assimilation, undocumented immigration, border militarization, nativism, and the various forms of political participation (from voting to activism) that immigrants engage in. We will conclude the semester with an examination of the relationship between Catholic social teaching, immigration, and social justice.

Coursework Requirements and Percent of Final Grade:

1) Attendance & Participation - 20%
   (Includes weekly reflection questions, participation in class discussions, and presentation)
2) Midterm – 25%
3) Final - 20%
4) Research Paper - 35%

Required Texts:

5) Lisa Marie Cacho. Social Death: Racialized Rightlessness and the Criminalization of the Unprotected.
ATTENDANCE

Weekly class attendance is mandatory to pass this course. Each student is allowed one unexcused absence per semester without the loss of any points. Absences due to illness (documented by a note from the LMU Student Health Center or a private physician) or participation in a LMU Sports related game or match (with documentation from your coach), and the observation of religious holidays are excused absences. Absences over the one unexcused absences will lower your grade. Upon the fourth absence (including the one free absence), the student must speak to the professor regarding their likelihood of passing the course. If you become ill or have some other emergency and cannot turn in an assignment on time or take an exam on the scheduled day, you must notify the professor ahead of time.

Unless needed for medical reasons, students will NOT be allowed to use laptops, cell phones, iPads, iPods, etc. in class. Students found using their cell phones/texting during class will be asked to leave and be marked absent for the day.

RESPECT AND CLASS DISCUSSION RULES

Every student brings a different perspective to the classroom and the variety of viewpoints expressed must always be respected; we all reserve the right to respectfully disagree with one another. Discriminatory comments of any kind will not be tolerated. As an LMU Lion, by the Lion’s code, you are pledged to join the discourse of the academy with honesty of voice and integrity of scholarship and to show respect for staff, professors, and other students.

CHEATING/PLAGIARISM

Academic dishonesty will be treated as an extremely serious matter. Proven cheating or plagiarism of any kind may result in automatic failure of the course, and will be referred to the University for further disciplinary action. It is never permissible to turn in any work that has been copied from another student or copied from a source (including anything found on the Internet) without properly acknowledging the source. It is your responsibility to make sure that your work meets the standard of academic honesty set forth in the “LMU Honor Code and Process” which appears in the LMU Bulletin.

ACCOMMODATION

Americans with Disabilities Act: Students with special needs as addressed by the Americans with Disabilities Act who need reasonable modifications, special assistance, or accommodations in this course should promptly direct their request to the Disability Support Services Office. Any student who currently has a documented disability (physical, learning, or psychological) needing academic accommodations should contact the Disability Services Office (Daum Hall Room 224, 310-338-4535) as early in the semester as possible. All discussions will remain confidential. Please visit http://www.lmu.edu/dss for additional information.

This syllabus is subject to change at the professor’s discretion
In-Class Presentations & Final Paper

In-Class Presentations

Presenters

Every Thursday a group of at least two students will serve as “experts” on the week’s readings by leading class discussion. Presenters will not simply summarize the “main points” of the articles/chapters assigned. Presenters must critically assess what evidence is used to establish the claims the authors make, the strengths and weaknesses of their arguments, whether the presenters agree or disagree with them (and why), how they relate to the other assigned readings and lectures, etc. Every student must present at least once during the semester.

Non-Presenters

Students not leading the week’s discussion must submit 3 questions related to the readings by 8pm on the Wednesday before discussion and be ready for the discussants and professor to call on them to ask their questions and give their opinions about the readings.

Research Paper (details to be discussed in class)

15 Page Research Paper Due on December 9th

Students are expected to write a 15-page research paper on any topic (with the professor’s approval) related to the politics of immigration. We will discuss what is expected from the research paper throughout the quarter. Students must settle on a topic by the 4th week of class.
