Class Meeting Time: Monday/Wednesday 9:30am -11:20am in Office Hours: Mondays 12:00pm-2:00pm Gowen 148 or By Appointment

Course Overview:
This course explores the history of immigration in the U.S., public policy that has been aimed at immigration flows or immigrants, and political consequences that resulted. Immigration policy is a highly salient and controversial issue in the current political landscape. This course will grapple with notions of citizenship and ‘illegality’ while examining backlash to demographic changes. Rhetoric on immigration is increasingly divisive and has caused differing reactions among various groups of people and voters. A considerable portion of the course will address social movement responses such as the 2006 protests and hunger strikes within detention facilities. Legislation aimed at immigrants such as Arizona’s SB1070, DREAM Act and Proposition 187 in addition to other local, state, and federal measures will also be explored at length. Finally, this course will examine undocumented immigration, dynamics on the border, and the politics of policing and immigrant detention.

Required Texts:

Course Requirements:
This course is an upper division seminar rather than primarily a lecture course. Students are required to write one research paper (8-10 pages) as their final assessment in addition to 2 short reflection papers (2-3 pages). The due dates for assignments are as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assignment</th>
<th>Due Date</th>

<tr>

<tr>

<td>12/14</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Assignments are considered late if not turned in by the time class begins at 9:30am on the assigned due date. Students should turn in a paper copy and upload it to Canvas Website under assignments. No electronic only submissions will be accepted unless stated otherwise on the assignment sheet.

Over the course of the semester there will also be two in-class debates on November 9th and November 28th. Students will be assigned a position to argue and will meet with members of their group during class to prepare for the debate.

Attendance and participation is required since the class format is primarily discussion. Assignments will be heavily weighted towards in class activities and discussion and these comprise significant portions of the overall course grade. For this class to be successful, students need to regularly attend seminar ready to discuss the material.
This is an upper division course that is reading intensive. Average reading load per week is 100 pages. Some weeks will have as few as 60 pages of readings but other weeks may have as much as 130 pages of reading. If you are not prepared to complete the readings and be ready for discussion, then this may not be a suitable course for you.

Procedures & Policies:

Attendance/Absences

Attendance is required. A substantial portion of the overall course grade is from participation and it is necessary to participate in class to receive these points. Moreover, the paper prompts and exam will draw heavily from class material, therefore absences would result in difficulty in achieving maximum points on these assignments. If students are absent, it is his/her responsibility to obtain notes from lecture. Lecture notes and power point slides will not be provided by the instructor.

Extensions

If you become ill or have some other emergency and cannot turn in a paper on time or take an exam on the scheduled day, you must notify me ahead of time and provide documentation. Only after written confirmation from me that you can either turn in a paper late or take an exam at an alternate time without penalty, should you consider the extension granted.

Late Penalty

If you do not get permission from me ahead of time to turn in a paper late, the penalty is 10% per day (24 hour period) it is late. After three days (72 hours), no late papers will be accepted for a grade.

Appeals & Re-Grades

If you would like to appeal a grade on an assignment, you must submit your appeal to me within one week of the graded assignment being given back to you. Your appeal can be no longer than 1-page single space and must detail where you earned points that were not allocated to you. The instructor reserves the right to re-grade the entire exam or assignment once an appeal is made, which may result in an increase or decrease in the score a student receives.

Students with Disabilities

If you have already established accommodations with Disability Resources for Students (DRS), please communicate your approved accommodations to me as soon as possible so we can discuss your needs in this course. If you have not yet established services through DRS, but have a temporary health condition or permanent disability that requires accommodations (conditions include but not limited to; mental health, attention-related, learning, vision, hearing, physical or health impacts), you are welcome to contact DRS at 206-543-8924 or uwdrs@uw.edu or disability.uw.edu. DRS offers resources and coordinates reasonable accommodations for students with disabilities and/or temporary health conditions. Reasonable accommodations are established through an interactive process between you, your instructor and DRS. It is the policy and practice of the University of Washington to create inclusive and accessible learning environments consistent with federal and state law.

Participation Grading

Participation comprises 25% of the overall course grade. Students are expected to come prepared to discuss the assigned material. This means readings should be completed before the Monday class of each week unless otherwise noted by the instructor. Some of the readings are extremely challenging in terms of the concepts they introduce and the evidence they employ. Most of these articles cannot be quickly skimmed, meaning that students should budget appropriate time for reading and thinking through each article, as well as how they relate to each other. Participation will be evaluated on both the quality and quantity of comments from students. Moreover, participation/performance in activities in class such as small group discussion, debates, pop-quizzes and simulations may also be factored into the participation grade.

Discussion Expectations

My goals for discussion are threefold:

1. Clarify any points of confusion from my seminar.
2. Discuss the main themes from the week’s readings.
3. Engage the literature by thinking critically about the theories and evidence confirming or disconfirming the arguments.

If we do all of the above, we have had a successful discussion.

Respect and Discussion Rules

Every student brings a different perspective to the classroom. Part of my job is to make sure that one viewpoint is not privileged over others. Dialogue in my class is expected to always be respectful. We all reserve the right to respectfully disagree with one another; we do not have the right to intimidate anyone.

Citations/Footnotes

In your papers you must cite authors from whom you draw ideas/quotations. The typical style in political science is (Last Name, Year of Publication: Page) or (Jones-Correa, 1998: 118) or if not referencing a specific page (Jones-Correa 1998). Footnotes and endnotes are also acceptable ways of acknowledging work. You can use any citation style you prefer as long as it an official style i.e. MLA or Chicago and it is consistently used in your written work.

Academic Misconduct

Academic misconduct is a serious offense at The University of Washington. All cases of suspected academic misconduct will be referred to the Arts and Sciences Committee on Academic Conduct, and may result in a grade of 0.0 for the assignment in question.

What constitutes academic misconduct? The University of Washington Student Conduct Code defines it as the follow (WAC 478-120-024)

Academic misconduct includes:

(a) "Cheating," which includes, but is not limited to:

(i) The use of unauthorized assistance in taking quizzes, tests, or examinations; or
(ii) The acquisition, use, or distribution of unpublished materials created by another student without the express permission of the original author(s).

(b) "Falsification," which is the intentional use or submission of falsified data, records, or other information including, but not limited to, records of internship or practicum experiences or attendance at any required event(s). Falsification also includes falsifying scientific and/or scholarly research.

(c) "Plagiarism," which is the submission or presentation of someone else's words, composition, research, or expressed ideas, whether published or unpublished, without attribution. Plagiarism includes, but is not limited to:

(i) The use, by paraphrase or direct quotation, of the published or unpublished work of another person without full and clear acknowledgment; or

(ii) The unacknowledged use of materials prepared by another person or acquired from an entity engaging in the selling of term papers or other academic materials.

(d) Prohibited collaboration.

(e) Engaging in behavior specifically prohibited by an instructor in the course of class instruction or in a course syllabus.

(f) Multiple submissions of the same work in separate courses without the express permission of the instructor(s).

(g) Taking deliberate action to destroy or damage another's academic work in order to gain an advantage for oneself or another.

(h) The recording of instructional content without the express permission of the instructor(s), and/or the dissemination or use of such unauthorized records.

If you are uncertain what constitutes plagiarism, please ask me. The Political Science/JSIS/LSJ/CHID Writing Center also offers guidance on plagiarism: http://depts.washington.edu/pswrite/forstudents.html.

Canvas & VeriCite

Students are required to turn in written assignments in paper copy and electronic copy when noted on the assignment sheet. Failure to turn in both formats by the deadline, will result in a late penalty until both formats are submitted. Please be aware that the electronic copy is submitted to VeriCite on the Canvas website. It is a software program that checks for plagiarism and other forms of academic dishonesty. All students are required to submit to this program. It is the student's responsibility to verify that the electronic upload to the Canvas site was successful and print a confirmation sheet with date and time.

Readings & Other Information

The electronic PDFs of articles and book chapters will be available on the Canvas site. The electronic PDFs will be available for download from the course website under Files and will be organized by week. Articles, assignments and announcements can be obtained from this site since it will contain the most up to date information.

The one required book for the course is available at the U Bookstore and will also be available electronically on the UW library website by searching the book title. Please note that while you may view the entire book online using your UW login, there are limitations on printing and downloading the material.

Students should plan to have the readings for each week completed by the first class meeting of the week, i.e. Monday.
If you have any straightforward administrative or logistical questions not of a personal nature (e.g. readings for the week; location of exam, etc.) please consult the website and syllabus first and then email me if you still cannot find the answer.

Please note the instructor reserves the right to change the syllabus.

Good luck and I look forward to a great term together!
